INHERITED CANCER RISK SUPPORT GROUPS COMBINE FOR DECEMBER MEETING

CHATTANOOGA, TN – The Rees Skillern Cancer Institute’s Cancer Risk and Survivorship Center invites you to join the support group for people at risk for hereditary breast and ovarian cancers (HBOC) and the support group for people diagnosed with Lynch Syndrome at a combined meeting on Tuesday, December 4, 2018 at 6 p.m. at Acropolis Grill.

Catherine Marcum, DPN, APN, AGACNP-BC, AGN-BC, advanced practice nurse with training in clinical cancer genetics through the City of Hope, and Rhonda Edwards, LCSW, OSW-C, are hosting the celebration.

Guests will have the chance to meet others with inherited risks similar to their own. Appetizers will be provided. The Acropolis Grill is located at 2213 Hamilton Place Boulevard, Chattanooga, TN 37421. To RSVP for this joint celebration, call (423) 495-GENE (4363). Please RSVP by Friday, November 30, 2018.

About FORCE

FORCE is the only national nonprofit organization devoted to individuals and families affected by hereditary breast, ovarian, and related cancers. By providing research, support, education, and awareness specific to hereditary cancer and those affected by it, we ensure that no one travels this journey alone. For more information about FORCE and hereditary breast, ovarian and related cancers, please visit www.facingourrisk.org.
